AUTHOR OF LETTER TO OTTAWA MAY BE CHARGED SAYS BONNER

VICTORIA (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today the possibility of laying a charge against the writer of a letter to Prime Minister Pearson's office on Premier Bennett's office stationery is being actively considered.

Mr. Bonner told a press conference the question of whether to lay a charge in the matter will be studied at a meeting this afternoon between officials of his department and the RCMP.

Mr. Bonner's press conference followed a speech in the legislature Thursday night by Alan MacFarlane (L-Oak Bay) demanding the attorney-general name the author of the letter and take action in the matter.

The letter has been described by Mr. Bennett as a "phony" but Mr. Bonner has cautioned reporters against referring to it as a forgery, despite the fact it bore a false signature of the premier.

The letter apparently was in support of a bid by Harry Stenchell, a United States millionaire, to enter Canada as a landed immigrant.

Mr. Bonner has asked that the letter be placed before the Dixon commission now investigating alleged irregularities in the immigration department.

Big Booster To B.C. Economy "Sequel To Peace Project"

VANCOUVER (CP)—The potential of the Peace River hydro potential will result in $125,000,000 being poured into the provincial economy by 1968, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Wiliston said Friday.

Mr. Wiliston said the decision pulled the B.C. economy "out of a nosedive and drove it upward to prosperity."

The assurance that hydro electricity would be available in north central B.C. triggered a chain reaction of spectacular development in the forest and mining industries, he said.

The minister was speaking at a joint meeting of the Electric Service League of B.C. and the Vancouver Electric Club.

Mr. Wiliston credited T. G. Wright, general manager of timberland and logging operations for Canadian Forest Products Limited, with being the first to recognize the pulp man said there were people waiting before 10 a.m. for tickets and there was a line-up into the street. "There is a real rush on the tickets," he said in this photo, R. E. Holland (right) examines the seating arrangement before he buys his tickets to the production. Selling tickets are (left) Mr. Hamilton and Dr. J. S. ## Three Youths Jailed 5 Years In Salmon Arm Knifing Case

BIG RUSH TO MEET MY FAIR LADY

SALMON ARM (CP)—Three youths were each sentenced to five years in prison Friday when they appeared in court on charges that included a knife assault on an RCMP corporal.

John Raymond Jamieson, 16, of Kelsey Bay, Wayne Canada Scott, 17, of North Surrey, and Daniel Wilson, 17, of Campbell River, pleaded guilty to the assorted charges last week.

Crew Rescued Off Lifeboats

HONOLULU (AP)—The survivors of the burned-out Danish freighter Marjell were due at top-secret Johnston Island in the Pacific today.

Twenty-three men and one woman were plucked from lifeboats by the U.S. Navy cargo ship Greenville Victory Friday, 1,100 miles south southwest of Honolulu, 11 hours after an engine room explosion which killed three men and injured three others.

If the group is permitted ashore on Johnston Island, 700 miles south southwest of here, they'll be among the first non-accredited people to have set foot there in recent years.

The island is constantly being built up in connection with the United States anti-missile program and was the scene of the U.S.'s atmospheric nuclear testing.

"SERIOUS" MOVE

Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder advised the Egyptian ambassador in Bonn today of the "serious consequences" which might result from the proposed Cairo visit of East German President Walter Ulbricht, above. West Germany is stopping arms aid to Israel, but has warned Egypt not to go ahead with Ulbricht's visit.

B.C. Needs To Put 'Teeth' Into Civil Rights Statutes

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia needs a civil rights commission to put teeth into three provincial statutes, the legislature was told Friday.

Arthur Turner (NDP—Vancouver East) said B.C. isn't moving quickly enough in promotional and educational work concerning acts designed to protect civil rights.

"What we need in this province is a civil rights commission to do the work to publicize the Fair Employment Practices Act, the Public Accommodation Act and the Equal Pay Act," he said during the budget debate.

Without promotional work all three acts would continue to be "ineffective."

"I know that there is not one of us that would put up with office accommodation (in business) such as we have here," the statement drew applause from both sides of the House.

The sitting ended at 6 p.m. On Sunday Mr. Bennett will surpass the record of 12½ years in office set early in the century by Sir Richard McBride.

The commission would make these acts near to fully effective as is being done, particularly in Ontario.

First speaker of the day was Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, who proclaimed B.C. milk "the highest quality produced in Canada."

Tests at his department's new dairy laboratory in Vancouver showed 79 per cent of the 23,905 milk samples graded had bacterial counts of less than 30,000 colonies per millilitre, compared with the maximum of 75,000 permitted by B.C. law.

Mr. Richter said that in some parts of North America bacterial counts of 300,000 are considered satisfactory.

The minister said a new animal pathology laboratory at Abbotsford will be formally opened in the near future. The lab would make possible "complete diagnostic services for breeders of all types of livestock and poultry."

George McLeod (SC—North Okanagan) called for better office accommodation for MLAs in the legislature. The former MP said present facilities are crowded and "miserable."

Parliamentary Affairs Minister Satyanarayan Sinha told reporters the government will consider putting the southern language demands into law if looting, rioting and arson stopped.

Hindi became India's only official language Jan. 26 under a 15-year-old provision of the constitution. A separate bill says English "may" continue as an alternate for 10 years. The southerners fear this will subject them to linguistic, economic and cultural domination by northerners.

Police opened fire today on demonstrators who set fire to a post office at Arni in the North Arcot district. The crowd cut telegraph and telephone lines and police reinforcements were rushed to the area, the reports said.

Red China Hints 'Volunteers' Set To Aid Viet Nam

PEKING (Reuters)—Chinese newspapers hinted today for the first time that Chinese "volunteers" may go to North Viet Nam's aid if the need arises.

The newspapers published reports by the official Red China news agency which said many former Chinese people's volunteers from Korea have been taking part in massive demonstrations "in support of the heroic Vietnamese people."

A former Korea fighter, Tang Chao Jung, was quoted as saying that if "the U.S. imperialists extend the war further north" he will ask to go to the front again to teach them another lesson.

Chinese leaders have said that aggression against North Viet Nam means aggression against China and have urged "concrete action" in support of North Viet Nam.

However, they have not specified what form Chinese support would take.

People's Daily, the main Communist party newspaper, featured pictures today of Chinese militia armed with rifles demonstrating in support of North Viet Nam.

People's Daily headlined the first four of its six pages today with slogans in big black characters: "Oppose United States aggression."

Entry Of Chinese Into Korea Changed Whole Course Of War

LONDON (Reuters)—In October, 1950, as victorious United Nations armies swept northward through Korea, massive Communist Chinese units crossed the Yalu River and the Korean conflict, which seemed almost over, began in earnest.

The entry of Chinese "volunteers" changed the course of the war and, in the end, the course of history in Southeast Asia.

The exact number of Chinese who fought in Korea is not known, although South Korean officials placed the figure at some 2,000,000.

The U.S. defence department estimated 900,000 Chinese "volunteers" were killed or wounded during the war.

Until Communist China's entry, the Korean conflict seemed over four months after the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel and struck south.

After suffering an initial setback, UN forces, largely U.S. and South Korean, launched a strong counterattack and by October had routed the North Korean Army.

A ceasefire in July, 1953, ended the conflict. The Chinese "volunteers" were gradually withdrawn from North Korea, with the final group returning home in 1955.

Air Crash In Miami

MIAMI (AP)—A Central American cargo plane with its starboard engine afire crashed and exploded into a Miami industrial area today, narrowly missing residential areas on two sides.

A tremendous blast on impact shattered windows in several nearby buildings and scattered toys, outdoor motors, bolts of cloth and other cargo from the plane.

The two-engine C-46 had just taken off from Miami International Airport on a flight to El Salvador, Central America, when one engine caught fire over a densely populated area of northwest Miami.

Eyewitnesses said the pilot swung his craft completely around, obviously in an effort to make it back to the runway, before falling from 300 feet and exploding into flames that leaped two stories high two minutes after takeoff.

The plane, owned by Aesav Airlines of El Salvador and clipped the corner of a small concrete block building and landed on its belly, coming to rest partially in an automobile junkyard and partially in the street.

Military Warehouse Explodes To Shake Up Jittery Saigon

SAIGON (AP)—A military warehouse used for storing oxygen tanks blew up tonight, casting a massive pall of smoke over Saigon, capital of South Viet Nam.

The explosion was inside one of Saigon's main Vietnamese military compounds, in a one-story concrete warehouse.

Authorities declined to say whether they thought sabotage was involved.

There were no reports of serious casualties.

All of Saigon is jumpy with expectation of new Viet Cong terror bombings, particularly in

MacEachen Puts CLC Planner On Maritime Trustee Board

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen named the Canadian Labor Congress' top organizer to the federal maritime union board of trustees Friday and promoted Judge Rene Lippe to the chairmanship.

The moves close the gap on the three-member board created by the resignation Dec. 15 of Mr. Justice Victor Dryer, chairman since the trusteeship was created by Parliament 16 months ago.

Mr. MacEachen also, in effect, rebuked the third trustee, Charles Millard of Toronto, who has criticized the trusteeship and demanded it be replaced by a labor-sponsored arrangement.

The minister said there are "several important matters" to be completed before the trusteeship is ended.

New trustee is Joseph MacKenzie, 54, who will go on leave of absence from his post as national director of organization for the CLC. He was nominated by the 1,100,000-member congress at the invitation of Mr. MacEachen.

In elevating Judge Lippe, the labor minister indirectly re-

MAYOR INVITES YOUTH GROUP TO CEREMONY New Flag Raised Monday

The Red Ensign will be lowered on public buildings, and some private ones, Monday, and the new Maple Leaf raised. One exception will be branch 26 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

"The national convention in Winnipeg last year adopted the Red Ensign as the legion's official flag," said Harold Whitehouse, president of branch 26 in Kelowna.

"We will continue to fly it as the legion official flag. We do go along with our national president who said he would accept the Maple Leaf as Canada's official flag. We agree it should fly from public buildings, but we will fly our legion flag only, until a national convention decides otherwise," he said.

Mayor Dick Parkinson today invited the public to attend the official flag raising ceremony at city hall at 8:30 a.m. Monday, at the corner of Queensway Ave. and Water St.

"The ceremony will last about 10 minutes," he said. "We will lower the Red Ensign while the Kelowna secondary school band plays 'O Canada.'"

The new flag will be raised to within one foot of the top while the mayor says a few words to mark the occasion. The new flag will then be broken while "God Save The Queen" is sung.

"I would like to extend a special invitation to youth groups to attend," the mayor said. "I would like to see Scouts, Cubs, Guides, Sea Rangers, Brownies, members of the Kelowna Boys' club and all city youth groups, present," he said.

RCMP said they will lower their Red Ensign about noon in a simple ceremony attended by members of the force, Bert Manson, government agent, said the Red Ensign came down Friday night at dusk as usual (it is not flown over the weekend), and will not be raised at dawn Monday. Instead the new Maple Leaf will be raised by the caretaker about 7:30 a.m. without ceremony.

The Kelowna Army will raise the new Maple Leaf Monday in a simple ceremony attended by two members of the "B" squadron, B.C. Dragoons, Michael Reid and Don Appleton. A Kelowna club spokesman said their Red Ensign will be lowered Monday and will be replaced with the new Maple Leaf flag when they are able to obtain one.

DIRECTORS

The full board of directors of B.C. Tree Fruits and of Sun Rype Products have been invited to take part also. The chamber feels this is one of the most important, and timely meetings, ever planned.

FOUR TOP STUDENTS

from each of the four graduating classes at B.C. Vocational School, Kelowna, auto body repair, auto mechanics, heavy duty mechanics and carpentry, compared the marks they earned during the five and one-half month pre-apprentice courses just completed. The boys graduated Friday and the top student in each class was given an award. Ray Heywood (left), Kettle Valley, a student in the first carpentry class at British Columbia Vocational School was awarded a gift certificate of $20. Sandy Couves, Chilliwack, a member of the auto mechanics course was presented tools. Fred Boday,

Four Classes End Training At B.C. Vocational School

Four courses were completed Friday at the British Columbia Vocational School, Kelowna. The first carpentry class to be held in the school was one of them.

The four courses are pre-apprentice training in auto mechanics, heavy duty mechanics, auto body repair and carpentry.

FOUR YEARS

W. Roy Brown, principal of the school said the boys will now look for work as apprentices. Each course requires four years before the inter-provincial exam for their trade is written.

The carpentry course, taught by John Henshaw, included study in concrete footings and forms, house construction, blueprint reading and construction of a full size NHA house.

"It is one-third theory and two-thirds practical training," said Mr. Brown.

includes general shop practice, and the fundamentals of auto-motives.

"The training is made up of 25 per cent theory and 75 per cent practical work."

The instructor for the auto body repair class was Al Tyrrell. The course included the fundamentals of electricity, basic techniques of shaping metals and the fundamentals of radiator cores and fans.

"Robert Koehle instructed the heavy duty mechanics course which was 90 per cent work with gasoline engines of all types and sizes and 10 per cent work with diesel engines."

CAUTION URGED WITH POISONS

RCMP today warned residents of the danger of setting rodent poisons outdoors.

"We were informed Monday, a dog belonging to Dr. Hector Moir, 3152 Watt road, was poisoned twice in eight days," a policeman said.

"The cause is believed to have been mouse-seed in meat. Anyone putting out poison for rodents must use extreme caution and be aware of the dangers involved."

"The law provides punishment for people who have a wanton or reckless disregard for the lives or safety of others. Such persons could be held responsible for the harm which might result if small children should consume the poison."

"The criminal code also says poison may not be set out where it can readily be consumed by animals," police said.

Book Lending On Increase At Most Regional Libraries

An increase is seen in book lending at most libraries in the Okanagan region, board representatives said at the annual library board meeting in Kelowna, Thursday.

Mrs. G. Y. French, Armstrong representative said people are increasingly asking for books about British Columbia and juvenile borrowers are asking for books on various countries.

"There is a need for more science fiction and western books," she said.

INCREASE

John Johnson, Enderby, said there is a steady increase in the members and the circulation of books at the Enderby branch library.

"There are 505 registered juvenile borrowers which is just under 50 per cent of the population," said Mr. Johnson.

W. B. Hughes-Games, reporting on the Kelowna branch said the library is used by a large number of people for more than just borrowing of books.

"It is used by people as a headquarters for culture," he said. Such services are provided as lending of books to adults and juveniles, film showings, art exhibits, and a meeting place for many clubs.

"The circulation of the books is steadily growing," he said. Representatives from Vernon, Coldstream, Oliver, Lumby and Summerland said the circulation at their branches is also steadily increasing.

Mrs. D. M. Mitchell, representative from Revelstoke said the location of the library in Revelstoke is not as good as it could be.

"The centennial committee has the possibility of a new library under consideration and if they decide to make a library their project the circulation should rise," she said.

PEACHLAND

Mrs. Kathleen Atkins, Peachland, said the old municipal building where the public library was located is now dismantled and the new one is being built.

"The circulation is down due to moving from the old building to a temporary quarters," she said.

Gospel Singer Here For Monday Date

The Lane Adams Kelowna Crusade committee will present a concert featuring Homer James, gospel singer, in the Kelowna Community Theatre Monday, Feb. 15 at 8 p.m.

Proceeds will go into a special account to be used for the proposed crusade in Kelowna in August, 1965, Russ Hawley, chairman, said.

Snow Pack Said Higher Than Usual

The Feb. 1 snow survey released by the B.C. Water Resources Service shows the snowpacks are above average throughout most of the province at lower levels and about average at higher levels.

The survey shows a slightly higher average snowpack in the Okanagan-Similkameen area which indicates the inflow to Okanagan Lake should be slightly higher this spring and summer.

Below the 5,000 foot level in the Okanagan snow course water equivalents are very close to long-term averages. At the 6,000 foot level, several courses including the Mission Creek and Silver Star are above normal.

The few key courses measured on the Similkameen River basin point to a near average Feb. 1 snowpack.

MCCULLOUGH

At the McCulloch snow course the survey shows a snow depth of 23.7 inches or a water equivalent of 3.2 inches. This figure is slightly lower than the 3.8 inches last year but higher than the 4.8 inch average established over a 25-year period.

FIRST SURVEY

The snow surveys were first introduced in 1935 to determine the amount of snow in the higher elevation watersheds in order to gain a more accurate estimate of snow-melt runoff.

The Mission Creek course has a snowpack of 34.9 inches, equivalent to 14.3 inches of water, compared to 14.4 inches of water in 1964 and an average of 11.8. Easterby has a snowpack of 18.4 inches, or 20 inches of water compared to 13.7 in 1964 and an average of 11.7.

Penticton Lake showed 28.8 inches of snow, $1 water which is exactly equal to the 16-year average. No figures were obtained in 1964.

Silver Star Mountain had 61.3 inches snow Feb. 1 or an estimated 16 inches of water compared to the 1964 figure of 11.6 and the average of 13.2.

Snowpack at Trout Creek was 28 inches or a water equivalent of 3.7 inches compared to 6.3 last year and the average of 4.9. Aberdeen Lake course had 25.6 inches of snow or 3.2 of water which was slightly higher than the 3.8 measured in 1964 and the average of 4.8.

MANY FACETS TO SPARE TIME PROJECTS

Recreation Leaders at Work Shop

The sixth annual workshop for recreation leaders and people interested in becoming leaders from communities in the Okanagan-Similkameen Boundary area is being held in Kelowna.

The workshop began at Kelowna Secondary School, west building, Friday, with registration at 7 p.m. followed by regular classes.

Jon MacKinnon, Kelowna recreation consultant for the community programs branch, department of education, sponsors of the workshop, said today there are now 150 people participating.

"The youngest registrant is 14, the oldest is 79. The courses include silversmithing, rock bounding, coppercraft, leathercraft, ceramics, painting, photography, team games, adult education and recreation resources."

"People registered come from Kelowna, Penticton, Field, Tulameen, Nelles, Kamloops, Salmon Arm, Vernon and Brackton, Kelowna.

"Courses are being held today from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. A windup banquet will be held in the Royal Anne Hotel at 6:30 p.m. tonight."

There were 120 people in attendance at the Friday evening courses which included lectures in many courses being offered.

People enrolled in handicraft courses were all working with the exception of the leathercraft course.

Ray Sont, instructor in leathercraft, lectured to his class about the advantages of the craft.

People in the painting for fun class, instructed by Kelowna's Jack Hambleton, were painting a still life picture.

Today they are painting from an actual model.—The painters did work in oil, water and pencils. Some used chalk, others drew their pictures in and used a lead pencil to get the effects they wanted.

Mr. Hambleton studied each painting, making helpful suggestions for improvements wherever necessary.

In the coppercraft room, people were making paintings, boxes, and lamp bases. Mrs. Louise Maskell, the instructor, brought a number of articles who displayed for the students to follow.

In room 26, Mrs. W. R. Smith instructed a group of 12 people in the correct usage of clay when making articles.

Mrs. Smith brought some articles with her to demonstrate what can be done with clay. The members tried their hand in such things as miscellaneous boxes, ashtrays, plates, plaques, candle holders, cups and number other articles.

In the recreation resources class, the leaders were shown a film followed by a discussion on

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

Wednesday, Kelowna Overture Concerts Association presented Zvi Zeitlin, violinist in recital in the Kelowna Community Theatre. Mary-Lou Kolbison was at the piano.

Performing artists are of three degrees of standards. Those who, like Heifetz and the Oistrach, belong in the seats of the mighty, those who have obtained a modicum of technical finish but whose main interest is one of commercialism rather than music for music's sake, and a small group of fine technicians with a splendid musical background who with great sincerity have something to say on their instrument.

Mr. Zeitlin belongs to this last group. He has a superlative technique. His approach to the music he performs is bold and yet sensitive in its conception. The tone is warm and the dynamics broad particularly in the louder range.

But for some reason, Wednesday night there was a sound of sturdiness in some parts of the Brahms D minor sonata. There was a feeling of hesitancy in the rapport between the violin and the piano. Mrs. Kolbison was not always rhythmically in support of the violin, particularly in the last movement. Presto gallo which might have gone at a swifter pace.

The true tensions in this music were not self evident with the piano pulling against rather than speaking with the violin. This is warm and intimate music possessing a restlessness characteristic of Brahms himself. Mr. Zeitlin is capable of a more passionate rendering of this wonderful romantic music.

The Bach G minor unaccompanied sonata for solo violin was thrilling in its technical mastery, yet it spoke with Bach's intention of definition of spiritual truths combined with contrapuntal mastery. It was beautiful as it always should be, and was never an exercise in showmanship as could so easily be the case.

Perhaps the modern Israeli Paul Ben-Zaim "Shepherd Song" was the lovely point in the recital. Mr. Zeitlin's tone was so beautifully controlled with softness which demanded and received utter silence from the audience. It was unaccompanied.

One is fortunate if some moments of beauty are reserved from each of the concerts one attends. Mr. Zeitlin gave us many such.

GUEST EDITORIAL

More People at Church But Morality Takes Fall

Writing in the Look magazine some time ago, Eugene Carson Blake made a pertinent observation. He said, "Today in our country, it is a cause of worry that morality seems to be on a decline at the same moment when there appears to be a religious boom!"

When we examine the picture carefully, we see that he is right. Religious books and Bibles are selling in unprecedented numbers, religious songs are popular enough to get on the juke box, new church construction is fabulous, and people are joining churches in a steady stream.

On the other hand, crime is higher than ever before, morality is weak in business and government, juvenile delinquency is a national scandal, and liquor and gambling eat like a cancer into the fibre of our national character.

How can we rightfully call ourselves a "Christian" nation if our church-going does not affect the way we live day by day? What good is all the multitude of our Sunday "exercises" if their purpose does not show up in what we are doing during the week? In short, our faith and our worship does not amount to much if it does not relate to every day thoughts and behavior.

One of the most common criticisms of modern religion is that it seems irrelevant to life. Services of churches leave many cold, weekly activities seem little more than any club, sermons do not deal with the problems ordinary men and women are facing... in a word religion is not related to life, and that is a damning indictment.

That this situation should exist is a very strange thing for the Christian faith. When we look carefully at the well-spring of Christianity, the Lord Jesus Christ, we will stand amazed that modern Christianity could divorce religion and life. Jesus did just the opposite of a separation between faith and practice — He showed that they were one. His ministry was on the Main Street of life. He was a carpenter, not an "altar boy." Shepherds and plowmen, fishermen and merchants, debaters and judges, widows and travellers—these were the actors in God's drama. Christ had no detached, isolated ministry—He was out among the everyday lives of all kinds of people.

One of the chief causes of this gap between worship on Sunday and practice on Monday is the fact that so few of us have ever made a vital commitment to Christ. We have a form of godliness on Sunday, but on Monday we deny the power of it on Main Street. Our relationship with Christ is one of "passing knowledge" whereas it should be one of "intimate acquaintance." — Rev. J. Schroeder, Alliance Church Minister.

Commons Electric Voting

Television and electronic voting methods are not likely to invade Canada's parliament in the opinion of Lucien Lamoureux, Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons. Mr. Lamoureux has just returned home after two weeks in London, Paris and Geneva, where he studied plans of other nations to streamline their parliamentary rules and procedures.

He found the British House of Commons in the throes of considering both the televising of Commons' debates and the installation of electronic equipment to speed up the recording of votes. But in Paris, where both innovations are in effect, he was told that the French Assembly is not at all happy about them.

The French find that televising of the debates for certain hours each day gives rise to intense and bitter competition among the deputies in an effort to catch the eye of the presiding officer. The result is that the presiding officer often finds himself in a very embarrassing position because he has recognized one deputy and not another.

The French voting system is operated by keys which are in the possession of each deputy. The theory is good, but in practice it breaks down, Mr. Lamoureux found. Deputies who will not be present for votes often turn their keys over to some one else, with the result it is not uncommon for one member to vote for 20 or more absent deputies. Additionally, if he does not vote the way the absent deputy wants, this gives rise to arguments and misunderstandings.

Former Canadian Speaker Marcel Lambert has advocated electronic voting for the House of Commons. But a system was installed experimentally when Mr. Diefenbaker was prime minister. He ordered it removed from the chamber because it looked too much like a glorified pin-ball machine and destroyed the dignity and aesthetic appearance of the Commons.

On Cable TV

The federal government is expected to move toward control over cable television systems in the next few weeks, it has been learned. Just how much control is planned is being kept secret by transport minister J. W. Pickersgill.

Cable TV systems operate in many parts of Canada, but the government has refused to grant any new licences until the Fowler commission report on broadcasting is received. This is expected some time in March.

Just before the Christmas recess, Mr. Pickersgill introduced a one dollar supplementary estimate, dealing with cable TV. When it became apparent there would be considerable debate, he withdrew the item in order not to delay adjournment of the Commons. If the proposed legislation is to be re-introduced as an estimate, this must be done before March 31, the end of the fiscal year, to be effective in 1965.

Pressure has been building up in a number of areas to lift the "freeze" on new licences. In Sudbury, where viewers see only their local station, thousands have signed a petition asking that a Guelph-based firm be allowed to install a cable system.

The government intends to bring cable systems under the control and authority of the Board of Broadcast Governors, as private and CBC stations are now regulated. But how far-reaching this control is to be, is not yet clear. If an attempt is made to specify the amount of Canadian content of cable, then some lively arguments will occur.

Douglas Fisher, the MP for Port Arthur, who has kept a close watch on the situation, argues it would be unrealistic to attempt to regulate cable in this way.

"Some 60 per cent of Canadian homes can get American stations, either through cable or proximity to the border, and it does not make sense at this late date to try to enforce content regulations," he says.

On the other hand, he is in agreement with prohibiting the establishment of cable TV networks. Such networks, he claims, might eventually carry all major sports and special programs, denying them to stations which now provide "free" television.

Bygone Days

Newspapers In Quebec Look At World Events

This is a selection of editorial on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Quebec Le Soleil—The issue of trade reciprocity between Canada and the United States brought defeat to the Liberal government of Canada in the 1911 election. Today, free trade between the two countries is again under discussion. Canada in recent years has been trying to increase its exports to the United States in an effort to bring down the deficit in its balance of trade, but without substantial success.

The nations of western Europe have accepted the idea of total abolition of import duties in their trade with one another. This total abolition is expected to be achieved in the next 10 years, perhaps even sooner. After studies by committees, these nations have cautiously proceeded with the establishment of a common market. In doing so, they have established inter-governmental or international committees, often under private auspices, to study world trade currents.

A North American free trade zone has been under discussion recently, even though no formal steps have been taken to establish it. Our country has got to face up to the presence across its borders of a colossus. It must strive to get a good, close-up view of what free trade on this continent would mean. Canada definitely has industries to protect against international competition, even if it also seeks to promote free trade on a world level. The effects of a disappearance of tariffs must be closely studied where certain goods are concerned and Canada must protect its own independence. Living as Canadians do in the shadow of the American economy, they should try to understand the realities of this trade problem. They should anticipate a period of adjustment and should protect their relations with other countries which constitute present or future markets for their products. (Feb. 4)

Montreal Le Devoir—Some newspapers have rushed to approve the Canadian government's decision to give $4,000,000 in military aid to Malaysia, including four transport planes, 250 motorcycles and a training program for officers of the federation.

Those who hail Ottawa's attitude emphasize that it is Canadian aid to another Commonwealth country in face of a threat of aggression from Indonesia. They add that the amount is not huge. But the whole principle of such military aid remains a debatable.

Malaysia groups four former British colonies, the Malay Federation, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah. Indonesia claims the latter two territories because they are on the island of Borneo, most of which she already occupies. But more than this, President Sukarno alleges that the new federation's purpose is to preserve the economic advantages the British have in the area, and also to give the Malays a majority over the Chinese.

DRINK PROBLEMS

The over-use of alcohol has been identified as the major problem in 44 per cent of cases before the Toronto family court, combined with desertion or assault, non-support, infidelity or general incompatibility.

ness, which they would not have if only Malaysia and Singapore were united. . . .

Indonesia's claims are highly debatable. All emancipated countries have had to keep the political structures of the former colonies. . . . And it was Mr. Sukarno's own principle when Indonesia claimed all territories that had formerly belonged to the Dutch. . . .

But the difference in the present situation is that the new (Malaysian) federation, as well as remaining in the Commonwealth like other liberated British colonies, remains tight bonds with London. England has reserved herself military bases in the country and its defence still rests largely on British troops.

In helping Malaysia militarily, Canada may hurt her reputation with the uncommitted world. Our country is fortunately free of imperialist suspicion and has no colonial past to live down. But if we intervene militarily in the Indonesia-Malaysia conflict, it may be rightly said that our motive is protecting British interests left over from imperialism.

Our Colombo Plan economic aid to Malaysia is quite justified but military aid is something else again. Indonesia has left the United Nations and is linking herself to Communist China, a movement that may tempt other Asian countries. Canada should think twice before joining in a military act of imperialist solidarity which will compromise her most useful role in international negotiations and the defence of peace. —Paul Kauriel. ## TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

It's A Long Time Between Visits

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

I am 27 years old. My bowels move once every two weeks. This has been the pattern for as long as I can remember.

However, I have never consulted a doctor or worried about this, as I have never noticed any bad effects. Is my pattern normal, or is it dangerous to my health?—R.C.

I'd say your pattern is extremely unusual. I will not say that it is abnormal or dangerous. There is no set frequency. True, for most people a movement once a day or every two days is natural and correct. They should stick to this pattern or rhythm.

But I have known others for whom a slower rhythm was correct—every several days or for some once a week. I can't say that I know for any longer span than that, but I'm not ready to call it impossible.

However, because of the one-day myth, some people fly into a panic if they go longer, and begin tampering with their systems with physics and enemas. Some of them create real problems for themselves by trying to force the body to accept a rhythm it doesn't need or want.

In this once-in-two-week pattern, if there is no discomfort and there are no symptoms of trouble, I don't think we dare say, without further investigation, that there necessarily is any harm to your health.

There are, however, several possible factors leading to this condition. Some people of long lean build have a ptosis, or drooping of the abdominal organs. The bowels may be unusually dilated, or lack good muscular tone. Hence it may retain a large amount of waste material before finally discharging it. I certainly know enough people with "nervous colons" or colitis who would gladly exchange their condition for yours!

You may, perhaps, have fallen into the habit of ignoring the urge for a movement. In such cases the bowel gets into the habit of not providing a strong urge until it absolutely must. A good rule for anyone is never to ignore a bowel urge.

Finally food (and fluid) intake has a great deal to do with it. If you habitually eat foods with inadequate bulk, it takes longer for enough residue or waste to accumulate. The person who habitually eats a lot of high residue foods (fruits and vegetables, especially those containing a lot of fibres; bran, nuts, etc.) will accumulate more cellulose "bulk" or waste.

Inadequate water or fluid intake can result in sluggishness.

This in your case, R.C., I would want to know a good deal more about your build, your habits, what and how much you eat and drink.

An X-ray of your colon would be most helpful in determining its size and noting whether any abnormality exists.

If, for example, movements are hard and painful, I'd certainly try different eating habits. Observation of any possible signs of vitamin deficiency would be in order. If you eat a diet too low in residue it may mean you are not getting enough vitamins.

Your extremely slow rhythm, I should think, would be well worth some observation by your doctor. But if he can't find anything wrong, I'd just put you down as an unusual case and let it go at that. But if something is wrong—you're young. Get busy and modify your habits or diet. Don't, however, assume that once-a-day is correct for everyone. It isn't.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to sleep on your stomach? Would it make the stomach protrude?—M.S.

No to both questions.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Rudyard Kipling Visits Canucks

By ARY GRAY
Browsing through the pages of the February, 1915 Courier I was surprised to find an article entitled, "Canadians in Camp," written by Rudyard Kipling. Upon closer inspection I found that it was a story written for the London Daily Telegraph, which had been clipped out and sent to the Courier by Pte. Gordon V. Oving, a former resident of Kelowna, and a member of the First Canadian Contingent.

It makes very interesting reading, and while too lengthy to publish in full in this column, extracts from it, pieced together, may present a mental picture of the scene at Salisbury Plains, where the Canadians were in training from October, 1914, until the beginning of February, 1915, and of the impression they made upon the famous writer.

Arriving by motor car, he met his first Canadian soldiers while on route to the camp. "This particular fold of down," he writes, "might have been a hump of prairie. The team that came over the rise, widely spaced between pole bar and whiffletree were certainly children of the prairie. They shook at the car. 'Yes,' said the driver, 'they were western horses.' He himself was from Edmonton. The Camp? It was right ahead down the road. 'Say! Look out for our horses!'

"A fleet of them move in sight, keeping to the left with a conscientiousness only learned when you come from a country where all the provinces—except British Columbia—keep to the right. Then more herries, contractors wagons, and increasing violence of the road-bed, till one slid through a rude gate to a new world, of canvas as far as the eye could reach!

IT'S AN ARMY

"It is not a 'Contingent' that Canada has sent. It was an army—horse, foot, guns, engineers. Taking the army's strength at 35,000 and the Dominion's population at 8,000,000 the camp in Canada on the scale of one to 240, an entire nation unrolled across a few square miles of turf, tents and huts.

"From Nova Scotia to Victoria, and every city, township, divisional point—from Kootenay and Nelson of the fruit farms to Prince Edward Island (where motor cars are not allowed). They ran inches above all normal standards, not in a few companies but through the whole corps.

ALL OVER

"Details going about their business, through the camp's much mud, defilements on fatigue, orderlies—foot and mounted—the procession of lorry drivers, companies falling in for inspection, battalions parading, brigades moving off for manoeuvre batteries, clanking from the ranges, they were all supple, free and intelligent, and moved with a lift and a drive that made one sing for joy. 'Where do your men come from?' 'Tell me some place they don't come from' was the answer.

"A good many of the old South African crowd were present. Men last met at De Aar and Belmont as privates were captains and majors now.

"A company of foot was drawn up under the lee of a fir plantation, behind it. They were a miniature of their army, as their army was a miniature of their people, and you could feel the impact of strong personality like a blow. 'If you would believe it' said a cavalryman, 'we're forbidden to cut into that little wood lot yonder. Not one stick of it may we have.' 'We could make shelters for our horses in a day out of that stuff.' 'But it's timber!' I gasped. 'Sacred tame trees!' 'Oh, we know what wood is. They issue it to us by the pound. Wood to burn—by the pound! What's wood for anyway?'

LARGE MEN

"I got away from those large men on the windy hill top and alid through mud past mechanical transport and troops untold, toward Lark Hill. On the way I passed three fresh-cut pine sticks, laid and notched one above the other, to shore up a caving bank. Trust a Canadian or a beaver, within gunshot of standing timber!

"Lark Hill is where the Canadian Engineers live, in the midst of a profligate abundance of tools, carts, ponies wagons, field telephones and other mouth-watering gear. Every camp throws up men on horse met at the other end of the earth, and so, of course, the engineer C.O. was an ex-South African Canadian.

"Some of our boys are digging a trench over yonder," he said. 'I'd like you to have a look at 'em! The boys seemed to average 5'10" with 37" chests. The soil was unaccommodating chalk. 'What are you?' I asked the first pickaxe. 'Private! Yes, but before that?' 'McGill, University understood 1912.' 'And that?' 'The 'show!' 'Queen! I think—thus the class in applied geology went on, half way up the trench, under supervision of a Corporal 'Bachelor of Science' with most scientific breeches! They were young, they were beautifully fit, and they were truly thankful that they lived in these high days.

TAKING CARE

"Sappers, like sergeants, take care to make themselves comfortable. The corps was dealing with all sorts of little domestic matters, in the way of arrangements for baths, which were crucially needed, and an apparatus for depositing ashtrays, which is even more wanted.

NO BOASTS

"Of discomforts endured, of the long learning and rehearsing and waiting, they say nothing. They do not hint what they will do when their hour strikes. In all their talk I caught no phrase that could be twisted into the shadow of a boast, or any claim to superiority, even in respect to their kit and outfit. No word of self-praise for any sacrifice made or intended. It was their rigid humility that impressed one as most significant—and perhaps most menacing for such as have to deal with this vanguard of an armed nation.

"The residents of Kelowna did not know then that the First Canadian Contingent, on the same day the Courier was printing the Kipling story, was being inspected by King George V and Lord Kitchener, in a final review before leaving for France.

Three days later, on Feb. 7, in an all-day rain (a fitting send-off from Salisbury Plains), the Canadians boarded troop trains and headed for Avonmouth on the Bristol Channel, where they embarked for St. Nazaire, France.

It was just over the six months since the contingent first assembled at Valcartier. In St. Nazaire they were given a warm welcome by the French people as they marched to the station. Here they made their first acquaintance with those small box-like cars labelled "Hommes 60, Chevaux 8" and commenced the long circuitous 500 mile journey to the battle front.

YOU GIVE UP CHEWING GUM BECAUSE . . .

How To Tell Middle Age

NEW YORK (AP)—Here are some more ways to tell whether you are middle-aged: The most fun you have all day is taking off your shoes when you come home from the office.

You don't like to see movies that have sad endings.

The dentist tells you that seeing him twice a year isn't enough.

You don't have to let out your belt another notch, but you feel more comfortable if you do.

Everytime you buy anything in a men's store you give the salesman a long lecture on how much more expensive things now are than they used to be.

The girls in the office quit giving you a kiss on your birthday.

You spend more time visiting sick friends in the hospital and going to funerals.

The list of things you shouldn't eat is longer than the list of things left for you to like.

THE ONLY ONE

You're the only one in your crowd who can remember what Mary Pickford looked like as a girl.

The days seem longer but the years go by on roller skates.

When you break a shoelace, instead of throwing it away you tie it together and go on using it.

The fellows around the office water cooler always seem to have newer jokes than you do.

You begin to notice how much older everybody else looks.

It used to take you 20 minutes to get a haircut. Now you get one in 10.

You get a little winded when you have to bend down to tune the television set.

If you read a good book review, you see no reason for reading the book.

You have to give up chewing gum as you find it sticks to your dentures.

When you talk to a younger person, you sound like a volume of proverbs. No matter what subject comes up, you always wind up trying to give him some sage advice.

You'd rather watch the baseball game on the home screen than go out to the park. Who needs all that fresh air anyway?

It takes longer to wake up in the morning, and longer to fall asleep at night.

Your medicine chest gets more crowded. You also read the medical column in your paper daily, even if it discusses a disease you haven't got. Who knows? You may get it later.

ANN LANDERS

Psychiatric Treatment Needed Not A Wife!

Dear Ann Landers: My fiance, Bob, and I are both 20. We have been going together for two years. Bob wants to be married next May. My problem is that I don't know if I should marry him. Here is an example of what worries me.

Friday night we planned to go to the movies. The last complete show started at 10:05. We arrived at the box-office at 10:15 and found it closed.

Bob was so furious he pulled out of the parking lot like a maniac and careened down the street at a dangerously high rate of speed. He kept saying "I have to get this out of my system."

Finally he swerved off to a side-street and drove into an alley. He brought the car to a screeching halt and put his head in his hands and cried. I sat silent for about 10 minutes while he sobbed. Suddenly he changed the subject and was extremely pleasant as we rode back to my house.

I'm afraid Bob may take his erratic temper out on me after we are married. What do you think?—DESPERATE

Dear Desperate: A 20-year-old man who deals with frustration at an infantile level is the worst possible husband material. This boy needs psychiatric help, not a wife. And you need to go with others for two years at least, to see if the young man is ever going to grow up.

The letter below is from a woman who married such a man. Please read on:

Dear Ann Landers: Can you help me? My husband has a TNT temper. I try awfully hard not to rile him—even to the point where I have memorized a list of things I must not do, or subjects I must not bring up.

It is useless. One wrong word and the table or chair gets a kick or I am in for a terrible

First Recruits Being Picked For U.S. Women's Job Corps

WASHINGTON (AP)—An effort to back the women's job corps. They started work this week in six cities—Newark, N.J., Pittsburgh, New Orleans, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Nashville, Tenn.—to process recruits and go to their homes to explain to their parents what the program is all about.

A federal government force headed by Dr. Jeanne Noble, a human relations professor at New York University, set up guidelines for the women's centres.

The goal is to select 300 girls by Feb. 24.

Announcement is expected soon on the location of the first residence centre to aid out-of-school, out-of-work girls 16 to 21.

A job corps camp for young men already is operating in Catoctin National Park near Thurmont, Md. And the first women's centre—to be located in a city—is expected to be ready by the end of March.

Of the 100,000 applicants for the job corps so far, 20,000 are young women.

Those accepted for the job corps will receive special occupational training, remedial education to bring them up in levels of reading and writing, plus basic homemaking skills and self-grooming.

The aim is to help them to prepare to hold jobs, gain a better education or take up responsible roles in family life.

While teaching by the Sea of Galilee, Jesus feeds the multitude with five loaves and two fishes, proving man needs more than bread to sustain life—Matthew 14:1-21.

When the disciples are caught in a storm on the Sea of Galilee, Jesus walks across the water to them, then calms the wind and seas, proving His Divinity—Matthew 14:22-36.

Jesus rebukes the scribes and Pharisees for hypocrisy: for willfully breaking Commandments and condemning those who do so unknowingly—Matthew 15:1-20.

Jesus visits Phoenicia where He heals a Canaanite woman. His fame as a healer and teacher spreads—Matthew 15:21-28.

Bishop Coleman Discusses Layman's Place In Church

A large crowd at the St. Michael's church, Kelowna, gathered for a discussion on the layman's place in the church. Bishop Coleman, who was the main speaker, discussed the role of the layman in the church and the need for laymen to be more active in church life.

Bishop Coleman pointed out that the church is not a building, but a living organism. He stressed the importance of the layman in the church and the need for laymen to be more active in church life.

Bishop Coleman agreed that lay participation in the church had increased within the last 100 years, but the changes "stop too far short of the burning question of the church's role in the world."

Bishop Coleman said the layman must assume the role, not of supporting the church and its mission, but of being the church. "There is no longer one set of religious and moral standards for the priest and another for the layman. If the worship of the church is to be meaningful, it must be the worship of the church as a whole."

Rebel Priest Speaks Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The priest who asked Pope Paul last June to remove James Francis Cardinal McIntyre on the grounds he took a weak stand on civil rights has spoken out again and, a spokesman said, has been reprimanded anew.

A source close to Rev. William H. Dubay said the reprimand took the form of a transfer.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles Catholic archdiocese confirmed the transfer but denied it was a reprimand.

Dubay, transferred after the first incident from a predominantly Negro to a predominantly white parish, was moved Tuesday to the chaplaincy at St. John's Hospital in suburban Santa Monica.

"After his letter to the national Catholic Reporter (Jan. 27 issue), he was given the choice of accepting the transfer and agreeing never to write for publication again without the approval of the chancery—or get kicked out of the diocese," the source said.

SCOFFS AT IDEA
A chancery spokesman, Magr. Benjamin Hawko, scoffed at the idea that the transfer was a reprimand.

"This is a routine change demanded by the operation of our diocese," the spokesman said. Father Dubay's January letter said in part:

"In issues of welfare planning, city planning, public education and social reform, the voice of the (Los Angeles) church is rarely heard except where property rights are involved. . . . Priests who are concerned are so intimidated that they don't know they are intimidated."

WHAT DOES IT ALL ADD UP TO?

In the well-known city where this young fellow is growing up, crime has shown a steady increase for more than a decade. And many of the convicted offenders aren't old enough to vote. Rough-looking "kids" loiter on the street corners with nothing to do. Smooth-looking "kids" flash by in cars with no place to go. The police patrol certain beats with dogs — humanity alone cannot cope with the situation.

But this young fellow must grow up nevertheless. And for him . . . for the community . . . for the nation . . . tomorrow depends on how he grows up!

It all adds up to the most crying need of our time: early, continuing, determined moral and religious instruction. It demands spiritual awareness in our homes. It requires resolute, sacrificial support of our churches.

In every city, village and hamlet an awakened nation is mustering its total spiritual resources . . . seeking God's help . . . and seeking yours . . .

White Paper Out In Rome Soon On Relations With Nazi Germany

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Archives and some to the state white paper containing documents on relations between the Vatican and Nazi Germany is nearing publication, Vatican sources said Wednesday night.

The collection will be made up largely of diplomatic notes, some belonging to the Vatican and some to the German archives.

rights of German Catholics under Hitler, until the start of the Second World War. The second will cover the war years.

The sources said the second section should throw new light on the attitude of Pope Pius XII toward the Nazis.

Source said the Vatican, concerned about public comment on Pope Pius' actions during the 1939-1945 period, assigned scholars of several countries some time ago to study the archive's documents in preparation for the white paper.

Meanwhile, the entire collection of some 60 diplomatic notes sent by Vatican State Secretary Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli—later Pope Pius XII—to the Nazi government in 1933-1939 is to be published in March by the historical section of the Catholic Academy of Bavaria.

PETER'S PATTERN

with PETER MUNOZ

Although still encompassed by the remnants of winter, one sure sign that spring is not too far distant is the announcement by the Labatts baseball club of their annual meeting to lay plans for the coming season. When the boys get together Monday night memories of the past dismal season should be still somewhat fresh in their minds.

Even the passage of what seems like an unusually long winter haven't erased or dulled the club's 1964 outlook. What looked like the makings of a good year turned into a disaster during the second half of the season. It's going to take some re-organizing to make this outfit into an Okanagan Mainline Baseball League contender this year but it's not too early to start now.

Some moves in that direction have already been made according to Jack Burton, Labatts' playing manager of last season. One in particular is the strong possibility of a new shortstop for the coming campaign. This is the one weak spot that has been plaguing the club for many seasons, a position they've had much difficulty in filling. Seems almost every member of the club has had a shot at that infield post at one time or another during recent years.

The new highly-touted infielder is Alf Davy from Terrace who has much experience as a senior ballplayer. He was here two years ago in the B.C. championships and his club, which he managed, gave Victoria a run for the title. They were the underdogs, who nearly everyone wrote off, yet they almost went the distance.

Burton and his sidekick, Syl "The Cat" Bridgman, a Labatts coach, are quite familiar with Davy, both having played in the northern area with him for many years. They feel he could definitely help Labatts' chronic infield problem. Here they have been woefully weak and according to the accepted baseball axiom to have defensive strength a club must be strong down the middle.

There is quite a task facing the new executive and club members to revitalize not only the team but fan interest which has sagged badly, especially last season. Of course last summer was a bad one weatherwise but there were still some good ball nights with few spectators.

The meeting is open to the public and all the ballplayers will receive a personal invite to attend. Reg Merriam, the club's retiring president, informed me. Reg has decided to ease up this year. He says he has a number of other organizations he is involved in and feels it is time he stepped aside in the baseball picture.

The club needs a good functioning executive to help overcome its problems and surely there are a number of fellows around town who could provide the bodies. Now is the chance for some of you supporters who have ideas to step out. Remember the meeting is wide open and the place is in the area's Memorial Room at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Greenalms or something botched up one segment in Friday's patter. Where it read the Lesley Cmolik rink felt only one bit of remorse and that was because their husbands couldn't be there, the word ALL of the rink was deleted. This of course changed the entire meaning. Three of the four husbands were on hand to see them win the B.C. curling title.

Wall Opens Up 6-Stroke Lead In Panama Open Tournament

PANAMA (AP)—Art Wall Jr. has forged a six-stroke halfway lead in the Panama Open golf tournament, first stop on his winter's five-tour Caribbean swing.

Wall, over-all champion on last year's tour and holder of eight Caribbean records, scored a four-under-par 68 Friday for a 131 total.

Don Slickney of Columbus, Ohio, moved into second place, with a 137 total, by equalling Wall's round of 68. Raymond Floyd of St. Andrews, Ill., also carded a 68, his 176 total giving him a two-stroke third place margin over Florencio Molina of Argentina and Keith Guise of Mexico.

The closest Canadians—Will Homenuik of Winnipeg and Adrien Bigras of St. Dorothee, Que.—were 16 strokes off the pace at 145. Homenuik dropped to a 72 Friday after Thursday's 73 but Bigras skied to a 76 after a first-round 80.

Next in line is Phil Brownlee of Toronto whose 146 includes rounds of 72 and 74.

The other Canadian scores were: Bob Panasuk, Windsor, Ont., 74-73-147; Bob Brown, Woodbridge, Ont., 73-77—150; Alf Huestis, Toronto, 76-78—154; Raymond Huot, Sorel, Que., 75-78—153.

Henry McInnes, Toronto, 78-76—154; Eric St. George, St. John's, Nfld., 77-77—154; Bill Wakeham, Victoria, 75-75—154; Franco Siranni, St. Basil le Grand, Que., 78-76—156; Ken Jacobs, Concord, Ont., 78-82—160.

Bigras played despite severe stomach pains.

Three-Way Tie At Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The spotlight was on Bert Vancey, Frank Beard and Al Geiberger as the $67,500 Phoenix Open golf tournament moved into its third round today, but defending champion Jack Nicklaus was waiting in the wings.

Vancey, the first round leader, shot a 70 Friday and Beard and Geiberger came through with 69s to tie for the second round lead at 137.

Nicklaus, with a 69, was one of three just two strokes back at 139. The others were Claude King with a 67 and Rod Funseth, who shot a 68.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver paced the three-man Canadian contingent, firing a 71 for a 141 total, a stroke ahead of George Knudson of Toronto whose 69 Friday gave him 142. Al Johnston of Montreal blew to a 74 for a 144 total.

ONTARIO CHAMPS COBBOURG, Ont. (CP)—A rink skippered by Ron Grant of Unionville won the provincial curling championship Friday and will be Ontario's representative in the Canadian curling finals in Saskatoon next month.

Turns down request. Halter also said the American Football League has turned down as not feasible a CFL request for an all-star game between the two leagues.

The meeting adopted in full a report from its rule committee suggesting new changes in the playing rules.

Most important was the one cutting the penalties on offensive pass interference. Previously such offences committed in the area where the ball was thrown resulted in loss of half for the offending team. It now is reduced to loss of 10 yards.

A 10-yard penalty, not 15 yards, now will be assessed for offensive pass interference in other areas of the field.

Also eliminated are the familiar second and fourth quarter five-minute signals from referees. Referees now will only give three-minute signals in these quarters and the clock will stop after each play thereafter, resuming again when the officials spot the ball for the next play.

The college draft also was held Friday and Hamilton Tiger-Cats picked off three of the first eight choices.

EFC champions last season, Tetsu weren't due to make their first choice until after the other three EFC clubs and four of the WFC teams. But because of earlier trades, Hamilton grabbed off first-draft choices of both Edmonton Eskimos and Montreal Alouettes.

Buckaroos Seek Vernon Clincher

Backed by what the club hopes will be a large segment of Kelowna fans, the searing Buckaroos travel to Vernon Sunday in an attempt to kick away their Okanagan Junior Hockey League semi-final series with the sagging Blades.

Kelowna, holding the upper hand in their best-of-seven "B" series for the first time, can wrap it all up with a victory at Vernon. Buckaroos have taken both games on the road.

Sunday's game, originally slated for a 2 p.m. start has been set back to 2:30 p.m. Buckaroos officials only learned of the change by making a late telephone call to Vernon.

DELAYS BUS The late start for the sixth contest will delay the departure of the special bus chartered to take Kelowna fans to the game. The bus will now leave from Memorial Arena at 1:15 p.m. instead of 12:45. Tickets are now on sale at Feedman and Sons Smoke Shop and all 41 seats must be sold by 6 p.m. today.

Bucks will be strengthened by the return of Gordie Schaefer for this crucial contest. The big winger is expected in from UBC later today. Otherwise no changes are contemplated from Wednesday night's lineup. Garth Rizzuto, Lyn Swanson and Gord Wallace are a few of the club that have shown marked improvement in recent games.

Always 3-2 in games, should Kelowna lose Sunday, the seventh and deciding game is tentatively scheduled for Kelowna Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m.

FAVORED Buckaroos are riding the crest of two straight wins, the most any club has put together in this series. With their improved play in their last two outings, Bucks are favored to wrap the series up on Sunday.

Meanwhile in the "A" series, Penticton - Summerland Broncos and Kamloops Rockets book up in the showdown battle tonight at the Hub City. Tied with three victories apiece it all boils down to a sudden-death affair.

LYN SWANSON ... flying again

LABATTS MEET MONDAY NIGHT

Kelowna Labatts will hold their annual general meeting in the Memorial Room of the arena Monday at 7:30 p.m. Reg Merriam, club president, said today.

The club, a member of the Okanagan Mainline Baseball League, will discuss plans for the coming season and elect a new executive slate.

All interested people and players are invited to attend.

'Total Honesty' In Hockey Sought By Ex-Officials

TORONTO (CP)—A poll of National Hockey League governors is being taken for their reaction to a four-man assault launched here Friday on the integrity of the league's leading officials.

President Clarence Campbell said in Montreal he would make no statement on charges levelled in a press conference by three former referees and a former linesman who said Campbell and referee-in-chief Carl Voss had manipulated NHL games to favor one team over another.

The former officials were specifically referring to a game March 22, 1962, won 4-3 by New York Rangers over Boston Bruins. The victory assured New York of the fourth and last NHL playoff berth.

The referees are Eddie Powers, who resigned Feb. 14, 1963, Dalton McArthur, who was fired in 1963, and John Mehlman, let out after the 1964-65 season. The linesman is George Hayes, dismissed by the league last week for refusing to take a mandatory eye test.

The former officials also discussed their position in regard to the NHL pension fund, of which they were not members until three years ago.

Hayes said he asked Campbell many times about officials joining the pension fund but was told the players didn't want them in.

EDDIE POWERS ... leads assault

Hayes and McArthur said Voss entered the officials' room before the 1962 game and told them to call only "good" penalties on New York.

Both quoted Voss as saying, in effect, that while the Rangers hadn't then been in the playoffs in a number of years, Boston was in last place and going nowhere but home after the regular schedule was completed.

McArthur said that during the game Boston captain Don McKenney asked him if he were trying to throw the game and that he had no comeback because, as he told Hayes later on the ice, "that's almost what I'm doing."

All four denied being "disgruntled" and asserted their only wish is that public confidence in the game be repaid by total honesty in the way in which the game is run.

Hayes told the press conference he held on to his job this year by threatening the league and that he had refused to sign a loyalty pledge requested by Voss.

Campbell is quoted by The Globe and Mail as saying Hayes "definitely did not threaten the league into giving him a contract last fall."

"He forgot to read my reply to his blackmail letter."

"I wanted only an assurance that he would obey the rules and regulations laid down in the officials' handbook, perform his duties faithfully to the best of his ability and not repudiate the authority of the office of referee-in-chief."

The zone 3 mixed playdowns opened at the Kelowna Curling Club today and continue Sunday.

Eight rinks are entered in the two-day meet. Included are the Barrie rink from Osoyoos, two Penticton rinks, Jack Young and Ted Williams, and five from Kelowna. Bob Harris, Guy Lacro, Fred Harris, G. Brownlee and O. Hopner.

The winners represent zone 3 at next weekend's mixed zone playdowns. Seven zone winners plus the host rink will meet at Kelowna Curling Club Feb. 20 and 21 to declare an interim champion who will play the Coast champion for the B.C. title and the right to advance to the national final in the east.

St. Paul Gives Up Hockey Franchise

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—St. Paul Rangers board of directors voted Friday night to return the club franchise to the Central Hockey League because pressing financial obligations cannot be met.

The directors, under league orders to come up with about $25,000 to meet immediate needs or give up the franchise, decided to break up the club at the end of this season. The Rangers have seven home games remaining.

The Rangers, backed by local businessmen, joined the CHL two years ago after three years in the International League. Attendance at home games had only been fair and, other than the immediate obligations, the organization owes about $100,000.

The Rangers are second in the CHL standings.

POPULAR STYLE

The bungalow is Canada's most popular house type. Traditionally, it provided for living on one floor with a basement that could be used for storage, workshop, laundry and heating plant space. Recreation or "rumpus" rooms introduced new uses for basement space and this led to the development of the "split-level entrance" house.

Basically the split-level entrance house is the well-known bungalow with the main floor raised a few feet to provide more headroom in the basement area and greater window space for ventilation and natural lighting. The old basement stairway is replaced by a main entrance arrangement of stairs that lead up to the main floor and down to the lower level.

Architect K. Briestensky of Guelph, Ontario designed this unusual two-level house which features an inviting sun porch off the living room. This house not only has an interesting elevation but a practical layout. The use of space has been well organized allowing for two bedrooms on each level. The split-level entrance provides easy access to both floors and because it is centrally located it allows an easy approach to every room in the house. Every inch of space is well used as evidenced by the convenient arrangement of the closets in each bedroom and the orderly arrangement of the kitchen and dining room. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 811, can be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Housewives All Asleep As London Markets Busy

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — Each night as most of London shuts its pubs and stills the roar of its giant transport system, a world within a world opens up at two famous marketplaces — Covent Garden and Smithfield.

Here the local pubs are just preparing for business—a concession in law to the men who live the upside-down life of buying, selling and delivering to tomorrow's dinner.

Buyers from fashionable hotels mingle with those from restaurants and hospitals and the family butcher to look, prod, haggle and buy.

Amid the clatter of pushcarts, abouts of porters weighed down with sides of beef, boxes of exotic foreign flowers and crates of turnips, prices are set. Bargaining goes on quietly, almost in a whisper. The customer approaches a white-coated sales agent with apparent indifference, shakes a head, waits on. Then, perhaps, he returns and finally two heads nod in unison and the deal is made. Whatever the bargain, it is a secret between them.

Perhaps the most amazing thing about Smithfield and Covent Garden is that after the night and early morning of business virtually nothing is left. A mountain of food has been devoured by the city.

PLACE OF EXECUTION

Smithfield, once the place of execution for Protestant martyrs, is in the heart of the City of London. It handles up to 3,000 tons of fresh and frozen meat a day. At closing time, about 9:30 a.m., hardly a sausage is left.

At Covent Garden, a mile away, experts have refined the gargantuan marketing to such a science that when the great brass bell sounds at 10 a.m. to end business, tons of carrots and nuts, ferns and flowers, cabbages and cauliflower have disappeared into fleets of trucks.

Smithfield — originally called Smooth field—dates back to 1174 when FitzStephen, clerk to Thomas Becket, described the sale of horses and also "vendibles of the peasant, swine with their deep flanks, cows and oxen of immense bulk."

It is recorded that in 1305 whole oxen sold for eight shillings apiece, about the price of a good steak today. In other times the site, just outside the City walls, was the play, archery and tournament field, and in the four years ending in 1558, during the reign of Mary, 200 persons were burned to death for their religious opinions.

MARKET TO BE MOVED

Although Smithfield predates Covent Garden—originally Convent Garden, used by the monks of Westminster Abbey—it has been rebuilt and modernized and is far more efficient. Plans are afoot to move the fruit, vegetable and flower market eventually to new quarters south of the Thames, but in the meantime it's hard to beat a pre-dawn stroll through Covent Garden for recapturing the atmosphere of old London.

Many of the houses along the narrow streets are unchanged from the days when the area, dotted with coffee houses, was favored by famous literary and theatrical figures.

Oliver Cromwell once lived in a house where the market now is located. And in the 17th and 18th centuries, when it was the most fashionable area in London, Pope, Swift, Field and other literary lions could be found here. It was also here, in a bookshop, that Boswell first met Dr. Johnson.

Next to the flower market is the Royal Opera House, better known as Covent Garden Theatre, used as the background for the opening scene of Shaw's Pygmalion and the musical version of the play, My Fair Lady, the place where Ellen Doolittle first encounters Professor Higgins.

OBJECTED TO LIGHTS

The theatre, associated with such names as actor David Garrick and singer Jenny Lind, has been frequented by Queen Victoria. Offended by the blue lights outside the Bow Street police station across the way, she ordered them removed, and it remains today as the only station in England without the traditional blue lights.

The first magistrate at the Bow Street court was Henry Fielding who wrote part of Tom Jones while living nearby.

Not far away is Lincoln's Inn Fields, with its Canada Walk, named to commemorate the setting up in the square of the wartime RCAF headquarters in 1940. A maple tree, the gift of the City of Ottawa, was planted there, and close by is a bronze memorial to Margaret Macdonald, wife of Canada's first prime minister, who died in 1911 at 3 Lincoln's Inn Fields.

Also near the market is St. Paul's Church, Covent Garden, which contains the remains of more famous people than any other church in London except Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral. Among them are Dr. Thomas Arne, composer of Rule Britannia, author Samuel Butler and actress Dame Ellen Terry.

It also was the scene of the execution of Sir Everard Digby, who was hanged, drawn and quartered in the churchyard for his part in the Gunpowder Plot to blow up the Houses of Parliament.

Wilson Arrives At Decision To Back U.S. In Viet Nam

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson has come to the conclusion that the differences between the United States and the Communists over South Viet Nam are irreconcilable at the moment and that Britain can do no more than support U.S. "measured retaliation" against North Viet Nam.

A well-informed British diplomatic source said today this was the context of the British view conveyed to President Johnson when Wilson spoke to him on the transatlantic "hot line" a few days ago.

This informant said that despite the condemnation of the American position expressed by the British Labor party's left wing, which has demanded Wilson seek a Vietnamese settlement, Wilson has no intention of launching a peace initiative at this stage because of the

Thick Smoke Pall Hangs Over London

LONDON (Reuters)—A thick pall of smoke covered east London for hours Friday as more than 150 firemen battled a blaze that caused thousands of pounds worth of damage to a three-story clothing factory. ## Half Cuba Homes Listed Officially "Uninhabitable"

By MICHAEL ARKUS

HAVANA (Reuters)—Cubans have been told bluntly they can expect no early solution of the country's acute housing shortage, although more than half the population is living in homes officially classified as uninhabitable.

A further third live in deficient or over-crowded houses, showing a total of 84.6 per cent of all dwellings listed to be in need of rebuilding or radical improvement.

Only 19 per cent of all Cubans are officially considered to be adequately housed.

The authorities frankly admit that at the present rate of construction the problem can never be solved. In a recent speech,

Premier Fidel Castro said: "Our present levels of construction are negligible compared with our needs."

BEHIND SCHEDULE

The total number of houses built in the first five years of the revolutionary regime barely reaches the total required for a single year under plans to erase the housing shortage by the construction of about 2,000,000 homes in 25 to 30 years.

The annual output in the period was, in fact, only just over half the number of new houses needed to cope with the yearly population increase—let alone start re-housing projects for people now living in uninhabitable homes.

Authorities, however, say that housing, though an urgent problem, is just not one of the revolution's top priorities. Castro cited it as an example of those problems which cannot be solved in the immediate future.

He puts development of agriculture, industry, health and education higher on the list.

HEAVY DEMAND

To build the hundreds of thousands of new houses needed, he says, would freeze the construction of hospitals, factories, schools and roads.

As a stop-gap measure, authorities are encouraging a "do-it-yourself" program, whereby the state gives technical assistance and credits for acquiring materials with which the individual builds his own home.

This plan works out best in rural areas, where agricultural laborers can devote time to building their own homes after working hours.

But a major problem is the scarcity of materials, and the authorities realize that such make-shift measures can have little real impact.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOMES

CRUMBLY CONCRETE

QUESTION: The basement concrete floor is only four months old and it is very powdery and crumbly. We have radiant heating in the floor. Could this be the fault, or was the cement faulty? What can be done to prevent this powdering? Can I install tile on it at the present time?

ANSWER: Radiant heating does not cause concrete to powder and crumble. It was probably a skippy concrete mix to begin with. Try applying a cement hardening preparation, available at masonry supplies dealers and some large hardware stores; follow label directions. Frequently this is all that is necessary to correct the condition. The powdering condition must be corrected before putting down tile over the floor.

REPLACING LEADED PANE

QUESTION: The doors in the upper part of large storage units in our dining room have leaded glass inserts. One pane is broken and needs replacement. How can the broken glass be removed and replaced?

ANSWER: Work a pointed hook (a nail or very slender pointed screwdriver) between the glass and the leading to scrape out the old cement and to open the space in order to remove the broken glass.

Before replacing the pane, a fairly stiff paste made of a half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and spar varnish with a little Japan drier and powdered whiting should be put in the grooves. Then embed the glass into the paste and add more if necessary for an absolutely tight fit. To force the leading back in place, place the handle of one screwdriver on the outside and the handle of another screwdriver inside, and press both together until the metal is forced back to its natural position. Wipe off all excess cement with turpentine.

STUBBORN FOOD STAINS

QUESTION: We use cloth mats for meals. I put these in the washing machine for laundering. But there are stubborn stains which remain (in spite of using bleach) from gravy, etc. How can I get these stains out?

ANSWER: To remove this type of stain, grease solvent is required. Apply full-strength liquid detergent to the stain, rubbing into the mat fibres with the fingers or a brush. Soak for several minutes, then rinse with cold water and launder as usual. I recommend sending 15 cents (no stamps) to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402, for a copy of "Removing Stains from Fabrics Home Methods." The sooner stains are treated, the easier they are to remove successfully, so worth having reference handy.

HELPFUL HINTS ABOUT YOUR HOME

Bigger And Better Fun Rooms Prevailing Aim Of Homeowners

To get the most from a recreation room, build it bigger and make it serve all age groups—this is the prevailing idea with Canadian home owners today, and you can find all the answers in "Six Master-Designed Recreation Rooms" available at Building Supply dealers.

Yesterday's box-like "rumpus" room is giving way to a family fun centre with a large floor area and varied facilities, centering on all age groups.

The family fun centre is not a room almost any available area, but a multipurpose area, with the emphasis strictly on open-plan living. Separate areas may be set apart for one or more family activities such as a sewing centre, an office, a study, a children's play area, table tennis, a carpenter or hobby shop. The skilful placing of a planter or room divider can achieve the necessary visual separation without losing the feeling of spaciousness which is the room's chief charm.

Because no two basements are alike, to build a family fun centre in yours, start with a well-organized floor plan. The new gives a wide range of basic floor plans which can be adapted to almost any available area.

The book tells you how to prepare for building and gives you a list of do's and don'ts covering everything from preventing moisture to boxing in a hot air duct. Framing is discussed in detail and simplified by the use of many illustrations.

Each room has a distinctive theme such as Polynesian, Maritime, Western, Old English and Contemporary. They have been photographed in full color from almost every angle so you can study them thoroughly. From cutting diagrams, templates and bills of materials you are shown how to build desks, bars, planters, storage walls, room dividers and a host of built-in furniture items. In fact, the

Winds Howl Through Ranch But It Must Not Be Shut Off

By ROGER C. WHITMAN

QUESTION: We have a ranch home with a 36-inch overhang. There are vents in the overhang for air circulation in the attic where we have furniture stored. In the winter we can hear the wind blow through the attic. Can these vents be closed in the winter to keep out the wind?

ANSWER: It is mighty important that you leave those overhang vents wide open, unpleasant as the wind may sound. If you close them, you'd run the grave risk of condensation forming, freezing, and then thawing. If you don't think this could be serious damage in a house, ask any poor guy who has had this happen to him? I wish I knew of a wind slencer, but I don't, sorry to say.

PORCELAIN CHIPPED OFF SINK

QUESTION: We have a pre-war porcelain sink in the kitchen. The pipes are in good condition. But the enamel is wearing off and some of the porcelain is chipped. Is there anything we can do to repair it, or must we purchase a new sink?

ANSWER: If there are only a few chips, and for temporary repair of the worn areas, porcelain repair materials are available at hardware, housewares and some paint stores; follow label directions. Or an epoxy tub and tile finish for complete resurfacing, can be applied; available at the same sources.

FILLING CRACKS

QUESTION: We want to paint the wood shingles on our house. Some of them have cracks. How can we fill the cracks?

ANSWER: Use a good grade of putty to fill these cracks; available at hardware and paint dealers. A workable homemade putty can be made as follows: Two parts of white lead and one part of powdered whiting; add linseed oil. If the mixture is too stiff after the cracks are filled, apply a coat of priming paint.

Angry U.K. Doctors Threaten To Quit National Medicare

LONDON (Reuters) — A clash between the government and Britain's 23,000 family doctors loomed today as the doctors threatened to leave the 16-year-old state-operated national health service in protest over employment terms.

Man Fills Space With 1,000 Objects

BERLIN (AP) — A 21-year-old East German border guard defected to West Berlin during the night, West Berlin police said Friday. He was the eighth border guard to defect since the beginning of the year, police said.

health service in protest over employment terms.

Negotiators for the doctors have advised them to give immediate notice to quit. The decision was made at an emergency meeting of a 10-man committee representing doctors throughout the country to consider the government's offer of pay increases for doctors totaling $5,500,000 ($16,500,000) a year. The average salary of a national health doctor ranges from about $2,000 to $3,000 a year.

Most of Britain's family doctors accept patients under the national service and receive a fixed fee a patient a year.

The British Medical Association — the committee's parent body — earlier described the $5,500,000 offer as "most disappointing." The association wanted raises totaling $15,000,000.

DESCRIBES MDs' REACTION
 Dr. Derek Stevenson, secretary of the association said: "In all my experience I have never known such a spontaneous outburst of disappointment and anger as has gone through doctors in this country."

Opening lead — six of diamonds

The great value of a preemptive bid is that it puts up an important bidding space and thus places the opponents in a position where they must guess what to do without really knowing whether what they are doing is right.

With preemptive bids are undoubtedly fine strategic weapons to be used as often as possible, they do occasionally backfire and cause more harm than good. Here is such a case.

South opened the bidding with a heart and West overcalled with five clubs. The preemptive put quite a strain on North, who had no way of knowing at this point whether his side could make five, six or seven hearts. After weighing all the pros and cons of the matter, North decided to bid six hearts.

This turned out to be a poor contract, but South played the hand well and made the slam. He took the diamond lead with the king and drew three rounds of trumps.

Aware that his only chance of making the hand lay in West's having started with eight (or nine) clubs, declarer played a spade to the ace in order to leave West with only clubs and then led the ace and another club. When West took the club, this became the position:

North

 ♦ A 7 3

West
 ♠ K Q J 10 7 6 5

South
 ♠ K 9 5
 ♥ K 7 4
 ♦ K 7 5

West had to return a club and declarer effected a diamond ruff, discarding a diamond from his hand. After playing a spade to the king, he cashed the J of hearts, discarding a spade and a diamond from dummy. East, on the last trump, found it impossible to keep both spades and diamonds guarded, and South made the slam as a result.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Planetary influences similar to yesterday's. You will probably find your greatest happiness in family gatherings, especially shared with close friends. Cultural pursuits are governed by especially propitious stars.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that for the next nine and a half months, it would be well to keep your enthusiasm under control and maintain a down-to-earth attitude, both jobwise and financially. Emphasize conservatism in all activities, but keep your best foot forward and, despite a lack of immediate reward, keep plugging. Small monetary gains are presaged for late April, mid-May and mid-August, and some occupational lines may be forthcoming in early May, and or mid-September, and these should keep your spirits up until Dec. 1, when you will enter an excellent planetary cycle on all counts.

Your racial life should be extremely lively in late April, June, mid-August, December and next January and, should you travel during any of these same periods, you could make some new friends and possibly, some valuable business contacts. Best periods for romance: late April, late June and late July.

A child born on this day will be intuitive, fair-minded and endowed with an extremely warm personality.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Mixed planetary influences indicate the possibility of some occupational matters, but in general, routine matters should work out fairly well, but don't attempt to launch new enterprises. There may be some difficulties which you do not foresee.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates a fairly productive period between now and the end of 1963, but a great deal will depend on your willingness to work hard and wait out results—especially in job and monetary affairs. Some financial gain is promised in late April, mid-May and or mid-August, and there is a good possibility of some occupational gains, also, in early May and or mid-September, but, in general, you won't see a real up-trend in your affairs until late November or early December, when you will enter a truly excellent planetary cycle which will last for at least three months. At that time, you will be able to advance on all fronts.

Where personal matters are concerned, romance will be favored in late April, late June and late July, travel in late April, June and August, and social interests, between May 1 and mid-September; also in December and January. Be careful to avoid friction in close circles during June and mid-November, however.

A child born on this day will be capable, trustworthy and extremely diligent.
